Lima, 11 June 2020 – Despite the lock-down and the slowdown in business activities across the economy, BANCO DE ALIMENTOS PERU has responded very generously to the call from NPH Peru to donate food and hygiene goods.

Last Friday, companies donated as much as two tons on goods to NPH Peru. The largest single donor is REDONDOS, which donated 400 entire chicken meat, and other companies that responded to the call are GLORIA milk with hundreds of different high protein milk goods, as well as PANTENE and H&S shampoo and Oral B toothpaste.

BANCO DE ALIMENTOS PERU further motivated their allies and celebrities such as the Peruvian TV actress Gisela Valcárcel to provide individual donations to help NPH Peru respond to the situation caused by the coronavirus pandemic in a timely fashion.

NPH Perú - Gracias por la donacion

“NPH Peru is providing full support to protect the most vulnerable through provision of highly protein meals and hygiene kits for the most vulnerable children. We highly appreciate the private sector's contribution to our work to support children in emergencies like the one we are all facing right now,” said Rafael Arce, NPH Peru country director.

NPH Peru would like to thank all the companies that donated to BANCO DE ALIMENTOS PERU and joined forces with us to #beatcoronavirus and protect children in Peru.
